

B. Harvey Jones, Paymaster Genl.
19 March 1877.

Dear Sir,

The colored is come this morning. I am afraid there will be nothing to do, but "Jeau, page." One thing, however I do, for which it will be of importance to preserve the present letter of your Paymaster. It is evidence that a great many other captains besides you, were in the same scrape; which, entre nous, looks considerably like some rose; but, passing over that, is a sort of evidence that you did nothing but what other men fell into through the like inadvertence. If the Age, for instance, were ever to set up an attack against you, this letter would be valuable. Therefore, do not let it go the way of the receipts.

Yours affectionately, J. W. J.
